

NON-INTERFERENCE.—A letter from Europe, quoted by one of our contemporaries, says, in allusion to the visit of the frigate Independence to Constantinople, "the United States appears to be on the watch to take a prominent share in the affairs of the old world. How little this correspondent knows of Americans. Because one of our frigates has been in various ports in the Mediterranean, and has now repaired to Constantinople to bring Kossuth, if he wishes, to this country, the letter-writer, reasoning by analogy from the conduct of European powers, imagines that this republic intends to interfere with arms, in the affairs of the old world. Never was a greater blunder made. If there is any doctrine, to which this nation has been consistent from the days of Washington down, it has been that of non-interference in the internal affairs of other powers. Against the absurd doctrine that has prevailed for two centuries in Europe, that it was necessary to maintain a balance of power, the United States has always protested silently. Whatever adventures, first casting off our protection, may have done, the republic in its official capacity, has never interfered with the civil troubles of other nations. Even the temptation of assisting oppressed people to become free, has been resisted, over and over again, in order to hold sacred the doctrine of non-interference.

The United States has no ambition to "take a prominent share in the affairs of the old world," in the sense at least, which the letter-writer means. The influence of this republic is already greater than that of any nation in the old world. But is not an influence maintained by fleets or armies. It is not an influence bought by the waste of treasure, the demoralizing effects of war, or the sacrifice of heartbeats of human beings. It is the influence of opinion. The pen does battle for us everywhere and is mightier than the sword. Since we asserted our own freedom, seventy and six years ago, we have been at the bottom of every revolution in Europe; and this without firing a single cannon, or sending out a solitary emissary. And we still exercise an influence, over the whole continent of Europe, at which kings tremble and oligarchs turn pale.

We stand, the representatives of a new era; the era of opinion is distinguished from the era of arms. Our history has exhibited a nation, through the aid of this opinion, rising to a greatness and power rarely equalled, without engaging in a single war with any European power, except for purposes of self defence. Peace is in fact, our aim. Not even to free Europe, will we violate this cardinal feature of our policy. Wars may be forced on us, but we will not seek them; for we came to herald a new era, when "wars shall be no more," and when oppressed, "the lion and the lamb shall lie down together."

LOUIS KOSSUTH.—Late advice has rendered almost certain the arrival of the immortal Hungarian in this country, at no distant day. It is announced semi-officially, that the U. S. Steamer Mississippi, which was placed by our Government at Kossuth's disposal, immediately on the determination of the Sultan to release him, has been accepted, and that, accompanied by a select party of immediate friends and dependents, he will soon set his foot upon the soil of the United States.

A welcome such as never yet awaited man, since the advent of Lafayette, the friend of Washington, will be accorded to this hero of modern times, whenever he reaches America. Thousands are eager to grasp the hand of the patriot, who spared alike the glittering overtures of his adversaries, and the weak importunities of a portion of his associates, to forsake his country, choosing rather to be overwhelmed in her ruin, than to secure ease and competence at the price of her betrayal.

As appears by the following from the Buffalo Courier, numbers of his devoted followers have arrived in this country, and are being forwarded by our countrymen to different parts of the land:

"The emigrant train last evening brought a party of seventy Hungarian exiles, lately liberated by the Turkish Government. They were the companions of Kossuth, and entirely destitute of means to purchase provisions. At Albany, the citizens, headed by Erasmus Corning obtained by subscription about one hundred dollars, and the different Railroad Companies between that city and this, generously passed them free over the route. The Michigan Central Railroad Company being in want of laborers at Michigan City, on the extension of their road around the lake, sent them forward by the Mayflower last night, where such of them as are disposed can obtain employment, and the rest proceed on their way to join their friends under Col. Uhazy, in Iowa. Among them were four officers who had certificates from Gen. Bem and Kossuth, and are all intelligent, noble looking men. Such acts of liberality on the part of Corporations are worthy of record."

NEW YORK STATE FAIR.—We received a call this morning from an old friend from Kent Co., and one of the largest and most enterprising farmers of the Grand River country, who is on his way to attend the New York State Fair at Rochester next week. For the past two or three days, scores of farmers have passed through the city, on their way to this agricultural anniversary. We are glad to see so much interest taken in the matter by our Michigan cultivators of the soil. They will bring back with them much useful information, and will be the better enabled to improve upon what they see, to the advantage of our own approaching Farmer's Festival.
